CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 18—The case of the German Bondholders vs California Pacific Railroads came up in the U S circuit court this morning. Defendant corporation it will be remembered petitioned in this court to have an adverse decision Judge Hoffman reviewed and set it aside. An order was made by Judge Sawyer for the petitioners in bankruptcy to show why the prayer of the defendants should not be granted. Hearing was set down for this morning but on a motion of Mr Haight, of counsel for bondholders, with the consent of the other side, the matter was continued until February 28th

Rev Dr David Lee formerly rector and founder of St Luke's Episcopal Church San Francisco was drowned in the Amazon river in August last. He was in the service of the London South American Missionary Society. Dr Lee was a blood relation of Scotland's bard, Robert Burns

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company's steamer Colima sailed this evening for Panama via Acapulco. She carried 148 passengers—55 in the cabin—$15 537 38 in treasure, and 1 229 tons merchandise

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 18.—A M Crane, of counsel for prosecution in the case of the people of the State of California vs John J Marks et al, has filed a complaint in the fourth district court against John J Marks, Charles Lux, Henry M Newhall, Thomas W Brannan, John Morton and John Rosenfeldt. Complaint alleges that Marks as principal, and the other defendants as sureties executed the bond required by law from Marks as harbor commissioner that Marks corruptly neglected to do his duty as a member of the Board of State Harbor Commissioners and in his official capacity so managed affairs pertaining to the revenue derived from rent tolls, wharfage &c. as to appropriate such revenue to his own use. Complaint specifies as one case the lease of Washington street wharf to Goodall Nelson & Co on the 1st day of February 1870. Numerous similar charges are also given. It is alleged the State was damaged to the extent of $11 [illegible] by the acts of Marks. Plaintiffs demand judgment against Marks for fifty thousand also ten thousand in addition jointly with other defendants making an additional fifty thousand; also for ten thousand against each of the other defendants jointly with Marks for such further judgment as may be legal and costs

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 15—The ship Midas Captain Oliver, for Portland Oregon, which put into this port for repairs reports a stormy passage. The vessel laid off and on the Columbia river bar from November 26th until December 16th. Owing to heavy weather she was unable to get in consequently made for this port. Before reaching here the provisions had given out, and the crew were obliged to broach the cargo and cut spars for fuel

Interior California.

CASTROVILLE, Jan 18—It rained very hard here the nights of the 16th and 17th and all day to-day. All the lower part of Salinas Valley around this town is under water and most of the bridges floating. Weather warm, wind from south, and prospects of another stormy night

SALINAS, Jan 18—Still storming here. Rivers very high. Have had no train from Monterey since Sunday at 8 o'clock A M. The railroad bridge across Salinas river is in a dangerous condition owing to the rapid changing of the channel. The mail came in to day by [illegible] J W Nesbitt, superintendent, is at the river with a large force of men doing all that can be done. The Kalorama, Two Brothers and three other v[illegible] are lying at Monterey on account of bad weather. The Constantine could not land, it being too rough to put in at Monterey. Rainfall from Thursday night to Sunday morning, 2 8 10 inches, making a total to Sunday of 6 5-100 inches.

Fire in Corvallis

CORVALLIS Jan 17—A fire broke out this morning at 7 o'clock in the house of Andy Emeric, caused by a defective flue. The new foreman had "Big Six" very promptly on the ground, but the suction hose was frozen so hard it was impossible to get it into the cistern. The fire was, however, soon extinguished with snow. Damage slight

The thermometer was 10° below zero this morning at 6 o'clock

INDUSTRIAL NOTES

Trade is now better at Richmond, Va than it has been since the beginning of the war nearly 15 years ago

The agents 80 000 English laborers have just arrived in Mobile, Alabama, on a prospecting tour through the South

The estimated value of the lumber now on hand in the country is $210 000 000, not including the large investments in pine lands

There are 5 000 000 bushels of wheat in store at New York, which is three times as much as there has been at the close of navigation since 1871.

There are eight metals—indium vanadium, ruthenium, rhodium, palladium, uranium, osmium, and iridium—more valuable than gold

Estimating the immediate average gain to the country of each immigrant at $150, the loss in the falling off from 1873 to 1874 amounts to $18,900 000

Mr Jack Frost has been appropriately selected as one of the regatta committee of the Hudson river Ice Yacht Club, at Poughkeepsie New York

Lumber is second only to iron in our industries, employing about 200 000 men, to whom are paid $100 000 000 in yearly wages. The capital invested is nearly $150 000,000

At the headquarters of the human hair trade in Germany, dealers are reserving choice samples for exhibition at our Centennial. The rarest color and the most prized is a pale gold.

The gold value of the foreign imports at New York in November including specie was almost exactly the same as for the same month last year, being $21 255,272 against $24 151 411

Our lighthouse system comprises 634 lighthouses and lighted beacons 25 light ships 40 fog signals operated by steam or hot air engines 346 day or unlighted beacons and 2 80[illegible] buoys

GENERAL NOTES

And now Chicago is ambitious to become the bullion city of the Eastern slope through the agency of its silver smelting works

Ben Butler has been called a good many hard names in the course of his career but it was reserved for Y Drych a New York Welsh paper to apply to him the withing epithet of Yn Hang[illegible] Cad Butler

There are a good many funny things on the file of the Civil Service examiners at Washington. For instance two candidates for $1 600 a year in the Treasury recently said that George Washington discovered America. In reply to the question "Who were the two noted Polish generals in the American Revolution?" answered promptly "Cromwell and Lafayette." A young lady modestly replied when asked what clerical experience she had had, "Very little as she joined the church only last week." A letter came from a widow delightfully original on the points of punctuation and spelling asking for two places—one for herself one for her daughter. Her husband had been flag carrier for his regiment. Sometimes he wore a belt with a socket in it she said, and sometimes he didn't. And the times he didn't brought on inflammation of the pit of his stomach in consequence of which he died. On this glorious career she based her claim and defiantly asked if any one could make a better show

WHAT CAN OREGON EXHIBIT

No 3.

While we do not claim that our State can successfully compete or should even make the attempt to exhibit in one tenth of the 1 000 different classes at the Centennial Exposition still we do claim that in several of the departments Oregon can not only make a creditable showing, but even surpass in the importance of her contributions many if not all of the older States

In the historical department special provision is made for the illustration of progress made in industry art and civilization of the country by the assignment of a separate space known as the historical section, for the proper display of relics and objects illustrating the progress of industry and the arts and especially such things as pertain to the early history of the States

Department 10 is devoted exclusively to objects illustrating efforts for the improvement of the physical moral and intellectual condition of man. The ten groups comprising this department are physical development and condition—medicine and sanitary. Benevolence consisting of the working and results of benevolent institutions. Government and law. Religious organizations and systems including statistics illustrating the origin nature growth and extent of various religious systems and sects and of missionary efforts Sunday Schools etc. Educational, comprising the various systems and accessories of education from the infant school to the university including special schools of science, art, libraries etc. Co-operative associations illustrating the practical results of industrial organizations workingmen's unions etc of secret societies and of co-operative efforts generally. Exhibition of works of art and industry to illustrate the working and results of great exhibitions and their influence upon industry science and civilization generally

Now we ask in all candor is there nothing in the groupings and classifications of this department in which Oregon should be represented. Is there nothing in government and law that has transpired in the history of our State since the organization of a few hardy pioneers into a territorial council for self protection, laying the foundation for a proud State which was at that time a waste howling wilderness claimed by the British crown? Is there no historical interest connected with the self sacrifice and personal efforts made by the first missionaries and various religious organizations that has helped to redeem our valleys from the heathen rites of barbarism and establish religious tolerance, refinement and moral worth? Has there been no progress made in scientific attainments and educational improvement since the settlement of our State, of which our people might well be proud?

Is our scenery too tame our rivers and mountains too insignificant, our auriferous grazing, arable and timber lands of so little account that their general features and area in condensed form should not be placed before the world?

Or are our modern professors and historians teachers and divines, too modest to attempt a condensed statement of the immense resources and rapid strides Oregon has made within the last thirty five years in all those civil religious and educational advancements that tend to make her people intelligent prosperous, and permanently blessed?

Reports similar to these will be made by other States and Territories condensed and printed and placed in their proper department from which volumes will be compiled as well by our own government as by other civilized nations comprising the history of the progress of the Great American Republic for the last century, and the Industrial Exposition of the world in 1876. Shall a condensed statement of Oregon's progress resources and improvements appear in this work?

PIG FACED LADIES

What are we to say of pig faced ladies? There have been claims for many but the search for their authenticity seems to be as uncertain as Mr Thom's search for reliable evidence concerning the alleged age of Old Parr and Henry Jenkins. Country fairs frequently announce them foreign populations believe in them, and many exciting stories are told concerning them. One narrative tells that a newly married lady of rank and fortune being annoyed by the importunities of a wretched beggar woman who was carrying a dirty squalling child exclaimed "Take away your nasty pig. I shall not give you anything." Whereupon the incensed beggar retorted "May your child when it is born be more like a pig than mine!" Alas the lady's child came into the world with a pig's face, grew up to be a woman beautiful in form, all except the face but hoggish in feeding and manners and lived and died in a hospital founded and maintained by her wealthy parents. Equally veracious we suppose, was the story of a Belgian gentleman who renounced the Church and embraced Judaism. The first child born to him afterward had a pig's face but in later years when the father recanted and the daughter was baptized the face miraculously changed to human form. A third story is that of Jan akin Skinker, born in Rhenish Holland in 1618 well proportioned in form else, but pig faced having no other power of language than a grunt. She or her parents, offered £40,000 to any gentleman who would marry her. Many gallants came but one and all begged to decline when they had seen her. Unfortunately two printed pamphlets exist, one in English and the other in Dutch each a counterpart of the other but whereas in one she is said to have been born in Wickam on the Rhine the other assigns Windsor on the Thames as her birth place and we may not unwisely disbelieve them both.—All the Year Round

HOW THE STOLEN MURILLO WAS RECOVERED—New York, Jan 12.—About two months ago the art world of both continents was startled by the announcement that the most important figure in Murillo's famous picture "The Appearance of the Infant Christ" to the Cathedral of Seville had been cut from the canvas and carried off to parts unknown. Its unexpected recovery in this city has already been announced. Recently two Spaniards called at Schauss art gallery and commenced negotiations for the sale of a Murillo. Mr Schauss requested the men to bring him the picture which proved to be the missing and long sought-for fragment of Murillo which however is greatly damaged and the most skillful restoration will be requisite to give it a semblance of its former glory. The Spanish consul has recognized the fragment as the missing part a photograph of the mutilated picture having been forwarded to him by the home government. The picture for which $250 were paid will be sent at once to Spain where it will be restored to its proper place

SALE OF GREYHOUNDS—EXTRAORDINARY PRICE.—On Saturday twelve brace of greyhounds from the well known kennel of Mr Lister of Bennsley Hall Skipton were sold by auction at Aldridge's Repository and attracted a large assembly of coursing men. There was a very spirited competition to secure this celebrated strain of dogs. A litter of 3½ brace of saplings by Liberty out of Cymbal whelped last April fetched 207 guineas two brace of dogs by Liberator out of Charming May pupped last April realized 220 guineas, and 1 brace by Magnano, out of Chameleon whelped in June last fetched 258 guineas. Mr Vyner gave the top price 100 guineas for a blue and white bitch of this litter. A third season dog, Choir Boy sold for 70 guineas a brood bitch Charm fetched 120 guineas and Cymbal 50 guineas and a dog Cripple 800 guineas. The entire kennel of 24 dogs realized an aggregate of 1 524 guineas and averaged 63½ guineas each.—Manchester (England) Guardian

A PHILANTHROPIST'S GRAVE

THE MISSION TO AMERICA OF HON. W. E. FORSTER, M. P.—HE CAME TO VISIT HIS FATHER'S GRAVE—A LITTLE CHAPTER OF INTERESTING HISTORY

Hon W E Forster, member of the British Parliament has been for some months quietly traveling over the United States and on Thursday last left New York for his home, after having the day before been complimented by the Union League Club of that city with a grand reception and banquet. A letter from Lowe's Ferry, Knox county Tennessee explains as follows the principal object of Mr Forster's visit to America

A drive of two hours and a half brought us to Lowe's Ferry on the Holston a swiftly running river as large as the Cumberland at Nashville with steep banks on either side a fine rolling country reaching away in all directions the lofty range of the North Carolina Mountains away to the south such, in brief are the natural surroundings

A plain white house with old fashioned windows, doors and porch standing upon a high bank overlooking the river is the home of Mr S D Lowe, the owner of the ferry and farm. In this house died Mr Forster below here he is buried, and to this locality three weeks ago came that distinguished English gentleman the Hon W Edward Forster in search of the grave of his father and the scene of his death. Having accomplished the object of his visit to this country he returned and sailed from Boston last week

The elder Mr Forster was a minister of the Society of Friends. He was a born philanthropist and abolitionist and spent his life in endeavoring to soften the hard lot of the poor and oppressed to check the slave trade and awaken America to a realization of the crime and danger of slavery. He perished at his work and died in harness. He in 1853 and 1854 accompanied by his brother and two others made a tour in America to try to awaken the people to the dangers and cruelties of the system of slavery then prevailing. This devoted party traveled over the entire land visited the governors of all the States in order that some scheme might be devised for the gradual emancipation of the slaves. The first governor they visited was Andrew Johnson, then governor of Tennessee and they were on their way from Nashville to Virginia, and thence home when death overtook Mr Forster in consequence of his exposure and he died at the farm house of Mr Lowe. He left but one son, and that son has risen to distinction as a member of Parliament and one of the leaders of the Liberal party in England. He now visits the grave of his father and is made acquainted with all the circumstances of his death

Mr Lowe tells me that during Mr Forster's sickness he used speak in the kindest manner of Andrew Johnson then governor of Tennessee. All the party agreed that none of the governors in the Southern States has given so much reason to believe that the abolition of slavery was practicable as Mr Johnson. While he of course was not in favor of abolition yet he assured Mr Forster that if there was any possible manner in which it could be accomplished, he would not stand in the way

While Mr Forster was here last month he sought out the ex-President. Unfortunately Mr Johnson was just on the point of going away and these two distinguished men had but little time together

I judge that it is his intention to write a book embodying his journeyings in America and an account of his father's career and death. After leaving here, he sent an artist to make sketches in the vicinity, including the house and room and bed where and upon which his father died. He also obtained a likeness of Mr Lowe. "He promised" said Mr Lowe "to send me a copy of the book just as soon as it was printed"

Should Mr Forster carry his intentions into effect and give his impressions of America his book will be one of interest on both sides of the Atlantic

Mr Johnson tells me that he still has among his papers at Greenville a long article in manuscript, from the pen of the elder Mr Forster upon the evils of slavery. He thinks it a model of elegant composition and deep thought—so much so that he has preserved it through all these years

We are glad to know that Mr Forster's visit was a success that he found what he came for—his father's grave and the place of his death

A SAMSON WHO LIFTED 5,000 POUNDS AND HOW HE DID IT

[From the Baltimore American]

It was evening, and the crowd of fakirs that usually infest Holliday street near Baltimore went out in full force when Prof Corker a distinguished itinerant from the South appeared upon the scene and mounting a curbstone let out his persuasive eloquence. The professor was a lean cadaverous looking individual with a gorgeous necktie, a greasy suit of clothes, a shocking bad hat and an excessively dirty shirt. The hat was cocked back jauntily, exposing a very bald head, adorned here and there by small tufts of thin blonde hair, which served to point out the more fertile spots in his cranium. He smiled good naturedly and talked in a perfect streak while Jester the indomitable tooth paste man Bowers the proprietor of the great American lung tester and Calkins the veteran peddler of the Sandwich Island paste blacking one coat of which is warranted to keep a pair of cowhides like mirrors for six weeks, all looked savage, and inwardly execrated the extreme volubility of Prof Corker. When a good healthy crowd had gathered around the Professor he announced that he was the only living man in America who exhibited one of Bendigo's National Strength Testers, and set forth its virtues saying "Any man kin tell his powers to a hair by lifting the lever an I only charges the livin sum of 10 cents. I hev known men to lift 2 000 pounds on ter on my machine than they could lift 1 000 on another. To any feller that lifs 2 000 pounds I will give $1 an to a man who jerks her up to 2 500 I'll give $5. Now, who'll take a chance?" Several healthy looking men here came up and took a pull at the machine. One lifted 1 150 and the other 1 170 pounds.

"Putty good lust" remarked Prof Corker as he squirted a mouthful of tobacco juice against the curbstone "but not nigh so powerful ez I hev seen." At this moment a very strong boy came up and raised 800 with ease. Prof Corker said it was a right smart lift for a boy "but I knowed a feller in New Orleans that hadn't eat nuthin for a whole day an he jerked her up to 2 600 like a flirt." The remarkable powers of the New Orleans man induced several ambitious auditors to try their strength and for several minutes Prof Corker took 10-cent stamps with amazing rapidity. After a number of men had tried their strength a flashy looking young man with red hair and a very freckled face, pushed his way through the crowd and remarked to Prof Corker "Yer say if a feller jerks up 2,500 he gets a fiver?" "Yes sir" said Prof Corker "I will." "Well now sposen I do it an you haint got the change how then?" The Professor eyed the physical developments of the new comer and not finding them startling, said with an injured air "I aint no bilk an I'll put up the five dollars until you make the trial." While Prof Corker was making the above announcement the strange young man closely examined the machine and finally said "All right." The money was then placed in a bystander's hand the crowd was pushed back the young man spit upon his hands winked knowingly at the crowd and grasped the handle. His back bent a trifle but it straightened again immediately as he raised up the handles and as he raised the finger on the indicator it flirted up and with unaccountable rapidity until it reached [illegible] 000 pounds which was the extreme capacity of the machine. The crowd was astonished. Prof Corker made a rush for the machine the young man grabbed the $5 from the stakeholder and as he elbowed his way through the crowd said "Look a hear old Cork I haint had nothin to eat for a week. I'm a brother of that air New Orleans feller what lifts a ton an the only difference atween us is that I used ter run a Little Giant Lifting Machine myself." The Professor swore that something was wrong and on procuring a light he discovered that the unscrupulous young Samson who had just then departed with the $5 had while examining the machine loosened a screw which held the spring so that a 5 year old boy might if so disposed have pulled the whole interior of the machine out by the roots. Prof Corker learned afterwards that the real name of the young Samson alluded to above was Brooks and that he was a one horse fakir who had during the early part of the evening sold Bucky's sealing wax a composition warranted to repair anything from a broken saucer to a fractured wooden leg on the other side of the street. At last accounts Prof Corker was searching diligently for Brooks at the various hash establishments on Market street

THE WAY THEY DO IN FRANCE

Writing under date of Nov 23 a Parisian correspondent of The London Daily News says A highly dramatic trial has been concluded before the assizes court of Versailles. Dumas the younger could not have created a stronger situation in defense of the thesis laid down in the preface to "Claude's Wife" than the one presented quite naturally on this occasion. The attitude of the public prosecutor of the judges, and the jury favored an extension of the tue la doctrine. M Moulin the Claude of the affair, was prosecuted for having with premeditation, fired at his wife, and the vicar of Chevreuse with whom she carried on guilty relations, and grievously wounded them both. M Moulin is a respectable draper in the sleepy and very priest-ridden town of Chevreuse a conservative in politics but sufficiently moderate to be esteemed by the radicals of the place. M Moulin is, moreover, good looking in the prime of life and of a fine carriage. He showed a patriotic spirit when the Prussians invaded the quiet vale in which he dwells. His past life bore the sifting of the public prosecutor M Harel who declared it was with pain that he asked for a condemnation which all the spectators felt must be pro forma. The president on whom devolved the police of the court, ordered the gendarme who conducted M Moulin into the dock to fall back as far as possible in order to mark his feeling of respect for the prisoner. This order was met by the jury and public with an approving hum. M l'Abbe Marteau the paramour of Moulin's wife is undergoing a sentence of six months imprisonment on the complaint of the aggrieved husband at Rambouillet. He was brought into court very closely guarded to be heard as a witness and was received with an angry murmur of which with a gesture, the presiding judge expressed his disapproval. Mme. Moulin very elegantly dressed in black silk and velvet, was also on the witnesses bench. But as the husband had had the magnanimity to exercise his prerogative of pardon, in consideration of her wound and children he did not send her to jail with the abbe. She came to give evidence. When she was called a scene highly characteristic of a French tribunal happened. The counsel for the defense asked, "Does M le Procureur insist upon the lady being examined to prove the premeditation of her husband?" The judge advocate at once waived his right, and Mme Moulin was courteously told to sit down. The liaison between her and the abbe it appeared had existed for many months before its discovery by Moulin who at 2 o'clock of Aug 14, on returning from a business journey, found the priest in Mme Moulin's room. On ascertaining this painful fact he loaded a revolver and, going to his wife's chamber, called upon her and the priest to open the door. This they were afraid to do and M Moulin told them that he would wait until doomsday to execute a vengeance on them. The wife at last appeared, and threw herself upon her husband clasping him round the knees promising repentance, and imploring pardon. He simply took the key of the door from the inside, and pushing his wife back locked her up with the vicar until the gendarmes whom he had sent for came to arrest them. Then he went into the courtyard to keep guard on a window from which the priest might have escaped. After waiting there two hours he grew impatient, and resolved to take the law into his own hands. Pursuant to this resolution, M Moulin climbed up on the dickey of a carriage and called his wife to open the window. She hesitated he broke a pane and proceeded to draw the bolt. Marteau meanwhile, set about forming a barricade with a wardrobe, on seeing which Moulin fired at him two bullets one of which hit him in the neck under the ear and the other carried away a joint of the fore finger. The injured husband next aimed at Mme Moulin, whom he wounded in the hip. Some neighbors, called by an alarmed maid servant to prevent murder contented themselves with ascending a ladder and watching from a shed the progress of the drama. Severely admonished by the president they said they had long been aware of the scandalous conduct of the abbe, and were not as heads of families sorry for his being punished as he merited. The guilty Marteau when he took his stand in the witness box, was hooted by the audience and reprimanded by the judge, who said that for years the Chevreuse people would have no veneration for the sacred office of the priest, owing to his misconduct. His wickedness would practically bar to young girls the tribunal of the confessional. To this the abbe listened with a smooth, downcast air. His evidence, which went to show that Moulin was in no passion when he fired, was given in a whining tone and produced a bad effect. Other testimony of the same nature was given. The fact is that Frenchmen like blood, and the Chevreuse draper was no exception to the rule. The law was altogether on his side, if he had only had the patience to wait for the gendarmes, or had not felt certain that he might fire with impunity at his wife and the wretched priest. The opportunity to shed blood was too good a one to be lost, and so, after awaiting the police two hours M Moulin carried out in perfectly cold blood the tue la doctrine. The jury only retired for form sake and returned a verdict of not guilty

At one time, while on a sidling trail he lost his footing and rolled down the mountain side some distance. His horse also fell down the mountain side and was lost, Mr G finally reached the settlement at Sandy almost worn out and was kindly cared for

The Jacksonville Sentinel of last Saturday, says "We have been visited with a snow storm which at one time lay on the ground eight inches deep. A rain accompanied it and held out a little the longest, and by Friday noon it was not more than four inches deep. It was frozen hard Friday noon with the sun shining brightly. Leaky roofs showed their weakness, and slop and slush has been and will again be the order. The storm does not seem to have been very general, as there is almost none on Applegate"

The new machinery to be used in crushing quartz from the mine of Beekman & Co., on the mouth of Applegate, Jackson county, was placed on the ground on last Sunday week, by Jos Beggs, who took it up from Roseburg, without a break or accident of any kind. Jim Hurd is superintending the setting up of the engine, which is pronounced a gem of its kind, and it is thought crushing will begin within a month. It is a portable engine of 15-horse power and the company—Beekman, Klippel and Johnson—have two 12-foot arrastras intending to crush the ore with stamps to feed the[illegible], which they calculate will enable them to reduce at least three tons per day. They have now something more than 100 tons of ore on the dump which it is calculated will yield fully $25 per ton. They have [illegible] of it in a mill and realized as high as $40 per ton. The gold is of very fine quality

They organized the Kerbyville Grange Jan 5th, with J B Syphers as Master and Chas Pfeister for Secretary, and the Josephine Grange at Vannoy's Ferry, on the 8th, with Joseph Pollock as Master and T F Croxton for Secretary. There was a full charter membership at each organization, besides a number of initiatory members. A general interest of citizens was expressed in the matter of the wagon road to Chetco. A meeting was held at Kerbyville, with Senator Tolen in the chair and J B Syphers Secretary. Resolutions favorable to the enterprise were adopted and money subscribed liberally to defray their portion of the preliminary expenses with a promise of a full pro rata with Jackson county to aid in the construction

THE LAST OCEAN HORROR

ADDITIONAL PARTICULARS OF THE BURNING OF THE "COSPATRICK" IN MID-OCEAN

Special dispatches from Madeira to the London morning journals give the following additional particulars of the burning of the emigrant ship Cospatrick

The fire occurred at midnight, and from the rapidity with which it spread, we infer that it must have originated among the cargo, and not have been caused as the English papers suppose, by the passengers smoking. With so many people below any fire likely to be kindled from a pipe would soon be detected and extinguished. Besides, the ship was teak, a wood hard to take fire under any circumstances and though the berths were unquestionably light boards, fire could not be spread among them so rapidly as to be beyond control. A teak built ship is teak in every part, beams decks bulwarks and all and is about as hard as lignumvitæ to ignite. Hence we infer that the fire originated with some inflammable material among the cargo, otherwise it could not have spread with such rapidity as to envelop the ship in flames in an hour

UNHAPPY LIES THE HEAD OF THE MAN THAT MARRIES THE PRINCESS.—They are talking about Lorne in London now. Lorne is the lad who made the mistake of marrying a princess of the blood royal and she has operated on the light of his genius as an extinguisher instead of a snuffer. When he commenced his career he was somebody independent of his being the son of somebody. Now he is nobody except as his royal brothers and sisters in law see fit to recognize his existence by a snub. He was a bright, pleasant lad, descendant of a duke of ancient lineage, a traveler and an author. He became private secretary to his father in the India office entered the house made apt modest thoughtful speeches. But his father and old widow Guelph arranged to make him miserable, that is marry Louise. The ceremony was celebrated with eclat and the plebs Godblessed the gracious patricians. From that moment the young marquis sank from individuality into the obscurity of a princess' husband. He no longer writes books or makes speeches, or figures in the India house. There are charmed social circles open to his wife and closed to him and outside of these circles he is unwittingly the jackdaw with a peacock's feather in his tail and both birds peck at him. He may not in the simplicity of his soul, wish he were dead but he might as well be.

TUESDAY MORNING JANUARY 19 1875

OBSERVE THIS

The Bulletin is confident that the OREGONIAN in citing the plain language of the Constitution to prove that military interference in the Louisiana Legislature was a direct and flagrant violation of that instrument is "pettifogging the case" It was unnecessary for our contemporary to remind us that in certain quarters the Constitution has come to be mighty poor authority on questions of law and order We are sorry the Bulletin isn't satisfied with our argument. But if it will be so kind as to turn one of its very long ears in this direction, for a moment, we will endeavor to quote one or two authorities whom it will hardly care to denounce as pettifoggers

1 President Grant has carefully refrained from endorsing the interference of the military under Gen de Trobriand

2 The President's most sagacious advisers unqualifiedly denounce it as a proceeding unwarranted by the Constitution and the laws. Secretaries Fish and Bristow, and Postmaster-General Jewell have publicly proclaimed opinions to this effect Attorney General Williams, who rarely fails to make a grave blunder when called to deal with the Southern question, by some good fortune did the best thing on this occasion he hastened to assure the country that he had nothing to do with the affair in any shape—that he has stepped down and out from the "outrage" business

The Republican press is almost unanimous in condemnation Here is a New York dispatch of the 12th inst

> The Times editorially doubts if the President will endorse Sheridan's language in the banditti dispatch, but if he does the Times don't believe the Republican party will support him in so doing But let us hear first and strike afterwards if necessary The Times moderately disapproves last night's meeting but adds this warning The Republican party must not leave Louisiana in its present condition much longer The people don't believe they are being ruled by the Governor whom they elected It suggests that Kellogg should retire While he remains Governor with that wretched creature Packard at his back we see no way out of the difficulty Kellogg's withdrawal and a new election is the only solution of the problem It won't do to keep a file of soldiers in a State Legislature to settle local differences or decide members qualifications

The Chicago Tribune protests that "it is contrary to the whole spirit of our institutions that martial law should be declared in times of peace" The New York Evening Post, a Republican paper, which was never caught in a passion, declares the interference "a most dangerous and revolutionary infraction on the Constitution"

Some of the most influential Republicans in the Union take the view advanced by the OREGONIAN Wm H Evarts, a constitutional lawyer of great learning and ability, says "This effort to control a Legislature strikes at the very soul of the republican form of government' Wm Cullen Bryant, a wise and venerable Republican, says "The wrong done in Louisiana has no possible extenuation It is an act from [illegible] has the right to withhold his condemnation.' Gov Alexander H. Bullock, of Massachusetts, who did more than any other one man, perhaps, to organize the Republican party, says the act is "subversive of a republican form of government." General Hawley, a Republican who served his country with honorable distinction throughout the war, says he "unhesitatin[illegible] of the interference" of the military.

We suppose all these authorities—President, Cabinet officers, Republican newspapers and Republican Congressmen—are "secesh sympathizers" and rebels Did anybody say anything about "pettifoggers?" And if so, will he please repeat his little observation"

THE DALLES MINT.

It was once upon a time believed that a United States Mint was needed at the Dalles and Congress accordingly appropriated sufficient to raise the first story of what promised to be a handsome building. After a while the work was discontinued, and for several years the unfinished Mint has remained unoccupied The people of the Dalles have made several attempts to have the building donated to Wasco county for county uses, thus far without success We are glad to see that a bill is now pending before the Senate which proposes to give building and lot to the State of Oregon on condition that they be used for educational and charitable purposes

Something should be done with the property It is valueless as it now stands and if the State can appropriate it to the uses mentioned, Congress ought to pass the bill Some of these days, when Senators grown suddenly economical since the November elections shall have expended the sound and fury which now assails every proposition for appropriations in aid of unfinished buildings, the Portland Custom House will be to let If it were not for a reasonable certainty that about the time of the next Presidential election a few hundred thousands would be appropriated for a new Custom House, we should feel disposed to urge that the Dalles Mint be used for a Reform School The city of Portland needs one, and some day there must be an institution of this kind under the patronage of the State Perhaps the good people of the Dalles may not receive the suggestion with as much enthusiasm as we feel in making it—which is very intense, with the thermometer somewhere near zero

OVERLOOKED PERILS

The administration organ in this city does not hesitate to condemn the Louisiana Conservatives for illegally organizing the Legislature, but it has never yet said a word against the illegal organization by the Republican members All of our Eastern exchanges agree that there was not a quorum present when the House last organized The New Orleans correspondent of the New York Times says he was present at the opening of the House after the Conservatives had withdrawn in a body He counted carefully and only [illegible] answered to their names' Notwithstanding this the Clerk Vigers announced that [illegible] had answered and business proceeded The New Orleans correspondent of the Chicago Tribune says there is no doubt that the Republican House was just as unlawfully organized as the Conservative House So the body now occupying the State House is not the legal Legislature What says the organ to this proposition? If one branch of the Legislature was an illegal body, of course Pinchback's election is invalid

THE LOUISIANA OUTRAGE

How it was Accomplished

ASSEMBLING OF THE LEGISLATURE—SCENES OF WILD CONFUSION ON THE FLOOR OF THE HOUSE—INTERFERENCE OF UNITED STATES TROOPS—FOUR CONSERVATIVES EXPELLED BY FORCE—THE SPEAKER'S CHAIR SURROUNDED BY SOLDIERS—SOLEMN PROTESTS ENTERED

(Special dispatches to the N Y Tribune)

NEW ORLEANS, Jan 4—Noon—The members have assembled in the hall of the House and are the most orderly body of legislators so far that has assembled in Louisiana for many years Messrs Foster and Phelps of the congressional committee have just entered the hall of the house and were seated near the reporter's desks declining seats on the platform The chief clerk called the house to order and proceeded to call the roll After finishing and announcing that there were 102 members present and a quorum a motion was immediately made that the Hon J A Wiltz of Orleans be made temporary chairman and Mr Wiltz took the chair Here the utmost confusion prevailed

The speaker appointed a sergeant at arms and temporary clerk Several motions were made and the confusion increased about fifty members yelling at the top of their voices Finally order was restored and the chairman made a speech stating that he would treat all members alike of whatever party or color Col Lowell protested against the manner of the temporary organization Speaker Wiltz replied that the manner of organization was identical with that of 1868 in which Mr Lowell participated Five members not returned by the board were declared by a resolution members of the House and took seats Order now (1 P M) is partially restored

A motion was offered to go into permanent organization This raised a commotion among the Republicans but, when a further motion was made to seat the members from the contested parishes there was a great excitement accompanied with shouts and exclamations of all kinds which were fearful to hear

Mr Murrell protested against Mr Wiltz as chairman and stigmatized the course pursued in placing him there as revolutionary

A motion was then put to admit members from the contested parishes reserving the matter of contest for the Legislature, and it was carried, amidst the wildest excitement and gesticulation Upon the Radical side to such a point did the excitement reach that the sergeant at arms was called upon to seat a member and preserve order The newly declared members from the contested parishes in question namely Bienville Winn De Soto and Grant were then duly sworn in by the speaker

A motion was then made to adjourn which failed the yeas and nays were called for The speaker explained that the yeas and nays were not in order till such a time as a permanent organization had become effected and this had not arrived at, that point The motion was then put and carried with great shouting and excitement to go into permanent organization L A Wiltz and ex Gov Hahn were accordingly put in nomination

Before the clerk proceeded to call the roll Mr Mathews moved from his seat that Mr Lowell be elected permanent speaker This excited a storm in the House but a motion to elect a permanent speaker [illegible] being out of order the speaker so announced and quieted the House after considerable muscular exertion

Roll-call was then begun amid yells from the Radical side and when proceeded with about half way ex Gov Hahn requested permission from the speaker to address the House which request was at once accorded He said that he had been elected a member of the Legislature from his parish and that he was a Republican, but in all matters of reform and good government he was willing to go with any party having these ends in view He had been nominated for the speakership by his party without seeking it The position or any other position in the gift of the Legislature could bring him no additional honor and he would gladly relinquish his claim at any time if he thought it for the public good Our business our commerce are all languishing and our plantations are sold out for taxes The country is swarming with office-holders, who ought to be swept away All these things must be reformed and he regretted to see so much of a party spirit displayed in this House when he had hoped to see a House which would be united in matters of legislative reform He protested against this organization and asked the Democrats to join with him and others in their efforts to bring about an honest and economical government We have many reforms to make. He had no hesitation in pronouncing the Election law a fraud and a wrong and he wanted to see it and all other such laws repealed but he declined to participate in this body, organized as it was and he therefore entered his protest against it

The call was then proceeded with and upon its conclusion the following result was announced Wiltz, 55, Hahn, 2 blank, 1 A quorum having voted and Mr Wiltz having received a majority of the votes he was accordingly declared elected

Judge Houston then administered the oath of office and as usual in such cases the speaker called for the oldest member Mr Lowell to administer a similar oath but he having left the House during the roll call with a number of other Republicans that duty was performed by the next oldest member

The speaker then addressed the House While the Radicals continued gradually to withdraw He said In accepting the responsible position you confer upon me I sincerely thank you It is a responsibility I would like to see another more able than I occupy but I will discharge my duties to the best of my abilities and the finger of scorn shall not be pointed at me for dishonorable acts when I retire

Mr Kay addressed the speaker on a question of privilege and asked leave to retire from the House, and entered a protest against its organization

The speaker then charged the sergeant at arms to allow no member to go out

P J Trezevant was then put in nomination for clerk and was elected

The swearing in of the members then began and the Radicals endeavored to move out of the House, and the sergeant-at arms sought to prevent them Several scuffles ensued when on motion of Geo P Dupre Gen de Trobriand was sent for and cleared the lobby of the police and spectators at the speaker's request

THE EXCITEMENT OF THE CONSERVATIVES

Gen de Trobriand who had been absent for about a quarter of an hour appeared again at the house, accompanied by two officers of his staff A file of about 20 soldiers had been marched into the corridor leading to the hall and at the head of the large staircase in the State house the police were also drawn up in force Gen de Trobriand at once stepped up to Speaker Wiltz and asked that Mr Vigers the former clerk of the house, should read a letter he held in his hand

Mr Trezevant the clerk elected objected when the general stating that he was unable to judge who was clerk asked permission to have the letters of Gov Kellogg read by his adjutant which was granted That officer then read the two letters one of which stated to the general that an illegal body was sitting as the House of Representatives and that Mr Vigers the clerk would furnish him with a list of those members who had been duly elected and thus returned by the returning board The other letter contained a request to Gen de Trobriand to eject those members who had not been returned as elected by the Board

Speaker Wiltz protested and told the General that this was illegal [illegible] organized body

Gen de Trobriand replied that he was a soldier and only second [illegible] and that he had to obey the orders of his superior Gen Emory who had [illegible] the [illegible] of Gov Kellogg

Speaker Wiltz and [illegible] again that this House duly elected has organized itself [illegible] Floyd as sergeant at arms, and Mr Trezevant as clerk After organization we have seated five gentlemen who [illegible] referred to us by the returning board Will you eject these men

Gen de Trobriand said [illegible] Mr Speaker I am [illegible] alone I thought that my presence would be sufficient to have these or[illegible]

Speaker Wiltz replied [illegible] General for that While I recognize [illegible] gentleman and officer and while we [illegible] submit to the United States Government it is my duty as speaker of the House of Representatives of the State of Louisiana to ask you to use force Until then the five men refuse to leave the room

Gen De Trobriand—I do not like to make a show I do not know the members I should prefer for you to point them out. I will ask them to leave or will you have me fill the room with soldiers

Speaker Wiltz—I cannot permit those members whom we have just recognized as being elected, to be put out. My duty is to keep up the dignity of the State of Louisiana as well as yours is to keep up that of the United States army

Mr Dupre at this time offered the report of the committee on elections which declared Jeffries Suckett and Stafford, of Rapides Vaughan Harris and Lamb of Caddo Schwing of Iberia and Agairn of Avoyelles to be elected

Gen de Trobriand, who had retired again advanced toward the speaker who said —Gentlemen be quiet, and be men The General then pointing to Mr Vigers ex clerk of the House said that he had been represented to him by Gov Kellogg as the clerk of the House and that he had a list of the names of the representatives returned as elected by the returning board

Speaker Wiltz I protest against Mr Vigers as having anything to do with this body He is no longer clerk of this House, his successor having been legally elected

Gen de Trobriand—This protest will be of no avail

Again Speaker Wiltz protested against the interference of the military and requested the members to join in a protest with him In response to this call all the Conservative members stood up and solemnly protested After another protest of Vigers's successor, Gen de Trobriand ordered Vigers to call the roll

Speaker Wiltz—The Conservatives will not answer when their names are called. None answered

Mr Lowell late speaker of the House then wanted to know what these proceedings amounted to

The Republican members had during this controversy entered in a body and either taken their seats or stood near the platform

Speaker Wiltz after Mr Lowell had indulged in a long speech about his having been duly elected and being willing to do his duty &c stated to him what had taken place during his absence and that of his Radical colleagues

Mr Vigers having finished the calling of the roll Mr Dewes said that 54 members had answered to their names two Democrats answering by mistake He moved the House proceed to business

Mr Murrell (colored radical) seconded the motion

Mr Vigers wanted to get to his seat, and Speaker Wiltz told him that he could not and that there was not men enough to put him in it

At this time a file of about 15 soldiers fully equipped entered the room, and formed in line outside of the bar

General De Trobriand then introduced Mr Hugh J Campbell who was going to his assistance in pointing out the members which he should eject Previous to this the report of the committee of credentials was adopted which seated several members who had not been returned by the returning board notwithstanding objections raised by Republican members

Speaker Wiltz protested against Mr Campbell's introduction when Gen De Trobriand received information that General Emory was at the door and would like to see him He went and almost immediately returned

Mr Campbell asked the General to have the roll called by Mr Vigers so as to ascertain the members who were returned as elected by the board

Gen de Trobriand announced that he had nothing to do with those returned as elected but was merely ordered to eject those not declared elected by the returning board

Mr Campbell then asked Senator Anderson if he knew any of those members

Mr Anderson only knew J Oquinn of Avoyelles, and Mr Campbell led the General up to Mr Oquinn to whom he made known his business

Mr Oquinn loudly protested and had his protest recorded In answer to the General who asked if he should lead him out, Mr Oquinn appealed to the speaker who said that force must be used The General ordered one of his aids to call a couple of soldiers and under solemn protest Mr Oquinn was put outside the bar but was alowed to remain there Mr Oquinn having pointed out his colleague Mr Vaughn of Rapides Mr Vaughn was inquired for by General de Trobriand in the same way He protested and his protest was recorded He said In the name of my constituents and the people of Louisiana and as a free born man of the United States I protest against this outrage They propose to take me out at the point of the bayonet

Mr Wiltz—Let it be done

Mr Vaughn was then put out There were some hisses from the upper galleries but the speaker restored quiet

Mr Campbell then pointed out Stafford and Jeffries of Rapides C C Dunn from Caddo, and E Kelly from Winn all of whom entered solemn protest against the outrage and were put out. This closed the ejections as there were no means to ascertain if any more were present Kelly in his protest appealed to the whole nation

General de Trobriand at this time was requested to order Mr Vigers to read the roll once more A few Radicals among them Ray and Murrell became very noisy but were at once quieted by Speaker Wiltz Mr Murrell apologizing and disclaiming any discourtesy to the speaker

Mr Vigers could not get into his seat to comply with the request to call the House again together for reorganization they not recognizing the election of Mr Wiltz as speaker

Mr Wiltz—In the name of the people and in the name of Louisiana I protest against Mr Vigers He cannot and will not be recognized by me as clerk of this House In protesting I fulfill a solemn duty to my people myself and my colleagues

Mr Vigers proceeded to read when Speaker Wiltz ordered the sergeant at arms to remove him from the stand The sergeant at arms, Mr Floyd put his hand on Mr Vigers who refused to leave, and called on Gen de Trobriand to protect him

Mr Campbell then said that Mr Vigers must be protected that this was no organized House Mr Wiltz no speaker whereupon Speaker Wiltz ordered him to be removed

Gen de Trobriand then ordered two soldiers to advance to put Vigers on the clerk's seat whereupon Speaker Wiltz rose and said

As the legal speaker of the House of Representatives of the State of Louisiana I have protested against the invasion of our hall by the soldiers of the United States with drawn bayonets and loaded muskets We have seen our brother members violently seized by force of arms and torn from us in spite of our solemn protest We have seen a force of soldiers march up the aisles of the Hall of Representatives of Louisiana I have protested against this in the name of a once free people in the name of a once free State in the name of the Union I enter my solemn protest This chair of the only speaker of the House of Louisiana is surrounded by United States troops The officers of the House are prisoners in their hands I solemnly declare that Louisiana has ceased to be a Sovereign State, that it has no longer a republican government, and I call upon the representatives of the State to retire with me before this show of arms

The Democratic representatives headed by Speaker Wiltz then marched out of the hall and State house both of which were closed as soon as the last Democratic representative went out They went to No 71 St Louis street followed by a large crowd who cheered them on their way Speaker Wiltz was loudly called upon when he came out and addressed the crowd in the following words

We have attempted and succeeded in organizing the House of Representatives I was elected speaker, and after a permanent organization notwithstanding the interference of the police we had proceedings until a few minutes ago when the United States troops forcibly expelled about eight or ten of our duly seated members We then retired and left and come to our people to tell them what has been done

Other speakers Messrs Marr Ellis &c followed counseling order and asked the crowd to retire Speaker Wiltz called the members together and adjourned them until 7 30 o'clock to allow the members some time for rest and time for refreshments

ONE OF THE SCENES

The New York Herald correspondent relates the following incident When Thomas Vaughn of Caddo

A SILVER HEADED OLD MAN

Was accosted by Gen de Trobriand and his guards he rose very slowly to his feet and said in most solemn and impressive terms —A General of the United States army has placed his hand upon my shoulder and commanded me to leave the floor of this house As a member of this body duly elected by the people of Caddo parish, and as an American citizen believing that the rights of American freemen are not yet all dead I desire to enter my solemn protest against this outrage

He was then marched out by his captors amid the profound silence of the late so noisy assembly Almost entirely similar scenes were enacted in the case of Jeffreys Luckett and Stafford of Rapides Dunn of Grant and Kelly, of Winn who severally entered their protests and were marched out amid the indignant hisses of all assembled

ROOSTING IN THE GUARD HOUSE

[Special to Chicago Times]

None of the members of the radical Legislature have ventured outside of the State-house since Monday They say they are comfortable where they are but the general belief is intimated that it would not be safe for one of those lovely law makers to trust his carcass beyond the protection of a United States bayonet

To day the various mercantile associations of the city met and denounced Sheridan's statement to the Secretary of War that the city was in a condition of lawlessness

Last evening after the publication of Sheridan's letter to the Secretary of War he was twice publicly branded to his face as a liar in the St Charles Hotel He said nothing in reply and quickly retired from the presence of his accusers to his apartments There was an immense throng at [illegible] and a good deal of excited feeling prevailed The excitement continues at fever heat and business of all kinds is almost utterly prostrated The people have no heart for anything save a contemplation of the political crisis and an anxiety to know what will be the next event on the card

WITHDRAWN.—We learn from persons who arrived on the express train yesterday morning from the South, that that train has been withdrawn for the present the travel being insufficient to warrant its continuance.

REPORT OF THE SHIPPING COMMISSIONER.

Mr Henry I Hoyt the Shipping Commissioner for the Port of Portland has submitted a report of the acts and doings of his office under the law of June 7th 1872, from Nov 25th 1872—the date of his appointment to the office—to Dec 31st, 1874. The report was read yesterday morning in the United States Circuit Court and filed.

During the period mentioned he has shipped partial crews for vessels as follows from Nov 25th 1872, to Dec 31st 1872 number of vessels 3 number of seamen, 74. From Dec 31st, 1872, to Dec 31st, 1873, number of vessels 20 number of seamen, 320. From Dec 31st 1873 to Dec 31st, 1874, number of vessels, 25, number of seamen, 370. Total number of vessels, 48. Total of seamen, 764. Seamen have been discharged and received their wages at the office of the Commissioner, as follows From Nov 26 1872 to Dec 31 1872 number of seamen discharged, 77. From Dec. 31 1872 to Dec. 31 1873 322. From Dec 31 1873 to Dec 31 1874 386. Total number of seamen discharged, 785. The total amount of official fees received for shipping and discharging seamen during the time above specified is as follows For shipping seamen $1,528 00 for discharging seamen $392 50—total, $1,920 50.

There has been collected on account of [illegible] and effects of deceased and deserted [illegible] and paid to the United States Circuit Court, during the same time, as follows. Wages and effects of deserted seamen, $5 71 of deceased seamen, $1,000 81—total, $1,006 52. During that period, expenditures on account of the Commissioner have been incurred and paid to the amount of $211 75.

The report concludes as follows: "I have thus far construed the shipping act of June 7 1872, [illegible] only to vessels owned by the United States as regards shipping and discharging their crews—and in view of the fact that only a small part of the foreign trade of this [illegible] done by vessels of the United States [illegible] Congress having by amending the [illegible] exempted vessels trading to British North American ports from the operation of the act, thus cutting off the principal source of business [illegible] few trans[illegible]actions now take place in this office. Neither have I, for the reasons stated above), been able to [illegible] to any great extent, the rules and regulations or exercise that general control over the seamen of this port as is contemplated by the shipping act."

REMEMBER THE POOR.

'One touch of human nature makes us all akin.' The present unusually cold season, which came suddenly upon us, finds many persons unprepared to meet the inclemency of the weather and to provide for their families even the necessaries of life. Some, through a feeling of pride, often allow the wolf to enter the very door before they make known their wants to the public. A few years since the Young Men's Christian Association engaged in the work of canvassing this city on errands of mercy. The work proved interesting and beneficial. Suffering was relieved, children were gathered into the various Sunday schools employment found for the unemployed and all those visited were made to feel that they were remembered in a substantial and Christian manner. This plan as adopted by the Y M C A, seems to be an excellent and effective one, and should the severity of the weather continue, would it not be well to consider the matter of recanvassing our city which has grown far beyond the limits of the previous work, and no doubt contains a proportionate number of worthy cases needing assistance.

I know of no community which responds more promptly and cheerfully in relieving the unfortunate and destitute than the people of Portland and vicinity.

Every city and county has its poor. Christ said, "For ye have the poor always with you." Then let us who are wrapt in comfortable garments, seated around the cheerful fire, in our pleasant homes surrounded with peace and plenty go forth on such errands as shall bless and comfort others, and we too shall have the blessing.

The poor—God's poor! oh help them,
Keen blows the wintery blast
And through the darkened air the snow
Is falling thick and fast
It drifts through the broken pane
And through the shattered door
O Christian friends remember them
And help, oh help God's poor

EAST OF THE MOUNTAINS.

The following dispatches which were kindly furnished by the O S N Co, will indicate the state of the weather east of the mountains at the places named. The dispatches were received at 5 o clock last evening.

Wallula—Weather cloudy looks like snow thermometer 10° below zero.

Umatilla—Cloudy thermometer 3° below zero.

Dalles—Cloudy thermometer 1° below zero.

Cascades—Wildest night have ever seen. It is snowing fast and wind blowing a gale down stream, and thermometer now 3° above zero.

AMUSEMENTS

This evening the Museum troupe proper will open at that place of amusement. The Two Bonnie Castles a pleasing comedy will constitute the opening piece. Prof Zamloch the clever illusionist will appear for 60 minutes which will be his last appearance in Portland. Concluding, the evening's entertainment will be the farce of [illegible] Foodles.

BUSINESS NOTICES

Mr John O'Neil advertises for a lost dog. See the card elsewhere.

All collars not made of linen can be washed—to pieces. Wear the Elmwood which will keep clean longer than any other without washing.

The great railway lines running eastward from Chicago have agreed upon a reduction of their local passenger fares from three and a half to three cents per mile.

There are yet standing in Maine 1,500,000 000 feet of pine timber, while the growth of hemlock and spruce is said to be almost inexhaustible.

[illegible]TICS.

A large congregation assembled at the Unitarian church on Sunday evening to hear a discourse on the above interesting topic. The subject was not concluded, and the announcement was made that on next Sunday evening, the Future of the city would be considered the past history and present sufficing to occupy the entire time of the evening.

The early history of our city is bound up with the early history of the whole North west. This the speaker divided into several periods 1 The Hudson Bay Company and Missionaries 1800 to 1836 2 Immigration and Settlement 1836 to 1849 3 Internal Development, 1849 to 1866 4 Era of Railroads and Expectancy.

The first stage of this history was much like a game of chess. By a treaty made early in the century Great Britain and the United States agreed to leave any unsettled territory in dispute between them open to either country for ten years. This in effect seemed to leave the question to be determined by the class of people who might emigrate to the country. The parties to this game of chess were the Hudson Bay Co and the missionaries who had come from the Eastern States. The character of either side was fully described. The company had many characteristics which ennobled it. A humane policy and admirable internal discipline and comity. But like all great corporations, it had a selfish and blind side. There seems to be little doubt that if the company had encouraged British settlement Oregon would to day be a province of that country. By taking a negative stand and hoping for entire possession the opportunity was lost. On the other hand there was the positive element of the patriotism of our early settlers and missionaries. The scene which led to Whitman's journey to the East in 1842 is graphically described by the historians. This remarkable man secured delay at a critical time and by his representations at Washington and subsequent leading of a large party of immigrants saved the Northwest to the government.

Two sayings deserve immortality—that of Dr McLoughlin when rebuked by the home company for harboring Americans he said, "Gentlemen as a man of common humanity I could not do otherwise than give of our stores to those naked and starving people, to eat and to wear. They were not our enemies. I did what I thought was right and must leave consequences to God and the government. If you insist upon my compliance with your rule in this particular I will serve you no longer." And that of Whitman when told he was disobeying orders by leaving his missionary labor to do political work. In effect he said "If I am not sustained I can only lose my place but if I do not go I am a traitor to my country." These sayings illustrate truly how men can put the spirit above the letter.

After speaking of the immigration period the provincial government Cayuse war and first constitution the early settlement of the site of Portland was assigned to three causes—the California trade the high price of land in Oregon City and natural location. Beginning with nearly 1,000 in 1851 the city doubled each five or six years until 1865 and has nearly doubled since then.

Our space does not permit of a full analysis of the remaining portion of the discourse which consisted in reviewing the leading characteristics of the place derived from the historical and local causes. They are 1 Domestic city. "Portland is the home city. Every traveler remarks the atmosphere of home comfort, gardens etc. 2 Conservatism in business morals and religion. Home capital has done most of what we see here and that earned by work, not speculation. That we stand high morally is evidenced by the standard of the public press which is singularly free from the garbage and filthiness which is often seen. Religiously we are ably represented in all denominations and the churches make a common front for sobriety good order and character. Self reliance and intelligence were then enumerated. Portland is not a strong, rank soil like that of San Francisco needing a strong rank hand to turn it to good, but it is firm ground. The people are Teutonic and have something of the soberness of the forests and winter sky, and something of the repose of Mt Hood. These are characteristics which do not fade and which are better than brilliancy or appearance without substance.

LOCAL BREVITIES

Firewood has almost doubled in price.

The Dalles mail will leave this city this morning.

Yesterday forenoon the line was down beyond Yreka.

Arrested yesterday by a police officer—a fully developed wallapus.

Notwithstanding the cold weather O'Brien will be found at the corner of Stark and First.

In some portions of the city the people are compelled to procure water from the fire cisterns.

Bathing is an impossible feat now at any of the bath houses of the city, the hydrants being all frozen up.

The jury list for the coming term of the State circuit court will be drawn during the present week.

Mr Chas Perkins formerly of the American Exchange after two months severe sickness is out again.

In view of the scarcity of wood a number of persons about the city have commenced to burn coal and coke.

Our agent at Silverton writing under date of the 18th says the mercury was 12° below zero at 6 A M Sunday.

Three papers, instituting as many suits for dissolution of marital copartnership have been filed in the clerk's office.

Since the extreme cold weather has set in it is very hard to get Chinamen to saw and split wood at any reasonable price.

One of the hack drivers by colliding with a sleigh yesterday, had the hind wheel of his vehicle jerked considerably out of place.

Mr Geo Weidler who attempted to make a trip to or near Astoria, returned yesterday. The ocean steamer is undoubtedly at that place.

During Sunday night a man was found lying in the street in a helpless condition from partaking too freely of the contents of the "convivial bowl." He would inevitably have perished from the cold had not a good Samaritan provided him with shelter.

THE COOPER INSTITUTE INDIGNATION MEETING

From telegraphic reports of the great indignation meeting held in Cooper Institute, New York city on the night of the 11th inst we take the following:

Mr Bryant first addressed the meeting, saying the President had no right to interfere in the affairs of a State, save as provided by the Constitution. The wrong done in Louisiana had no possible extenuation. He regarded the question solely as a solemn question of constitutional law. No matter who desired the interference of the military, it should not have been given but in the way prescribed by the Constitution otherwise it is an act from which no citizen has the right to withhold his condemnation. This evil must be rebuked and crushed now, before it becomes formidable as a precedent.

Wm M Evarts was the next speaker. He said the intervention of Federal authority within a State was to suppress violence, and then only when requested by the Legislature, and only in case the Legislature is not in session and cannot be convened can the Governor represent them in such demand. None of these conditions existed in the Louisiana case. After reviewing the Constitution and law in the case he said this effort to control a Legislature struck at the very soul of a republican form of government. The people should know and teach their rulers that they were only in their positions to act in accordance with law.

Jerusalem can hardly be called a happy home just now. During the past year one hundred murders have been committed there but not one of the offenders have been punished.

The winter is fairly upon us. We must keep warm no matter what the cost. Don't go about like a frozen man but straighten up and boldly enter the establishment of BECK & WALDMAN and ask them to show you those heavy winter goods. They'll do it, and what's more will not astonish you with big prices because of the cold weather. On the contrary, they propose to make their patrons happy by clothing them well and at the same time charging a low price to suit the present times. Don't wait until it is too late but [illegible] now.

AT VANCOUVER

From the Register we cull the following items:

The ordnance men are putting up ice.

A number of venturesome men crossed the river on the ice on Thursday.

Oats bring fifty cents per bushel, and timothy hay $12 per ton. Farmers feel encouraged.

Mr Jesse Brooks crossed the river Thursday evening and reports the ice perfectly safe for pedestrians.

Owing to the non arrival of Judge Greene the intermediate term of the district court which should have convened on Monday last is indefinitely postponed.

The skating is the best now that it has been for many years. The wind of Wednesday blew off the little snow that had fallen and left the ice perfectly smooth.

Joseph Gibbons the father of Mason and Ed Gibbons and one of the earliest settlers of this county died at his farm on the Washougal recently at the ripe age of 76 years.

According to the thermometrical record kept at the hospital in the garrison Wednesday Jan 13th, was the coldest day experienced at that place since 1862. The thermometer stood at 4° above zero for several hours.

The following named gentlemen have filled the office of mayor since the incorporation of the City of Vancouver. Levi Farnsworth H I Striker S W Brown, W H Troup J M Fletcher Gay Hayden and A G Tripp.

Fourteen or fifteen years ago some of the officers at this post let loose some dozen pairs of quails with a view of propagating the species in these parts. They have succeeded including the huntsmen so well as to become quite numerous.

The report of the Clarke county school superintendent shows the following. No of districts reporting 30 districts in which schools have been taught 25 children between 4 and 21 years of age 1,627 children that have attended public schools 913 average time schools have been taught 3 4-5 months amount paid to teachers, $3,388 86 otherwise expended $077 15 cost of instruction per scholar $7 15 apportionment for January 1875 $2,369 15 or $1 45 per scholar. Thirty teachers have been examined during the year most of whom have been engaged in teaching. The increase of scholars in the county over last year's report is 132 in the district.

Mr and Mrs G W Brock retired to rest on Saturday evening before last with their infant daughter apparently in perfect health. They awoke at 5 o clock A M on Sunday and fed the child from a nursing bottle that being the hour customary for the child to awake to be fed. The little thing ate as heartily as usual after which child and parents turned over for their Sunday morning nap. The mother awoke between 7 and 8 o clock and noticing that the child felt unnaturally cold took it up and found it dead. Nothing to indicate the cause of death was to be found about the little thing which looked as natural as life. The only reasonable cause we have heard assigned for the sudden death of the child is heart disease.

A man named Strenz pleaded guilty to a charge of beating his wife. No attempt was made at defense not a word offered in extenuation of the act. The beating was not done while the man was under the influence of liquor. He was duly sober and meant it all. The pair have four children the youngest being less than nine months old. This cruelty has been borne in silence on the children's account for several years. At length it became too heavy for even this little heroic woman to bear and she was driven to seek the protection of the law. The recorder questioned the woman as to her means of livelihood should she carry her threat of leaving her husband into execution. "Give me," said she, "my children and my sewing machine and I will trust to God for the rest." Strenz was ordered to give bonds in the sum of $300 to keep the peace for a year or in default to go to jail. He gave the required bonds and was discharged from custody. The mistreated wife finds a temporary refuge in the house of a kind neighbor.

If you would keep warm buy yourself a big Overcoat Gloves and last but not least, good Underclothing all of which KOHN opposite the National Bank keeps in large quantities. You can be suited without a doubt. In addition to the above he has a fine assortment of Dress Suits, Furnishing Goods. The prices are down—like the thermometer is just now. Don't wait until the winter is over and be in misery but buy now while the prices are down.

Regularity brings Vigor.

Local irregularities produce weakness of the entire system. In order therefore to re-establish health and strength upon a sure basis these irregularities must be permanently overcome. Many persons endeavor to reform them by remedies which address themselves merely to the symptoms, without affecting the cause. If such individuals were to use instead Hostetter's Stomach Bitters they would speedily appreciate the difference between a medicine which palliates and one which entirely removes physical disability. That prime regulator of bodily disturbances restores the disordered organs to an uninterrupted and healthy performance of their various duties whereby alone the system can recover its lost tone and vigor. Hostetter's Bitters are a tonic medicine but they are a tonic which regulates ere they strengthen the system.

The Mind Dependent on the Body.

Hypochondria is a far more common malady than is generally supposed. It has its degrees. It is true progressing from mental depression or the "blues" to mental hallucination but they are all forms of the same malady. It is a significant fact that this mental ailment is invariably accompanied by dyspepsia and nervousness and the fact that it readily yields to the alterative action of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters which are peculiarly adapted to the eradication of indigestion and nervous debility proves that it originates in those complaints. It will thus be seen how dependent the mind is upon the body for the preservation of a cheerful equilibrium and also how readily the causes of mental gloom may be removed. There is no surer or pleasanter way of shaking off a fit of depression brought on by indigestion than by swallowing a dose or two of this agreeable medicine.

TUESDAY MORNING JANUARY 19 1875

THANKFULNESS

ADELAIDE ANNE PROCTOR

My God I thank Thee who hast made
The earth so bright
So full of splendor and of joy
Beauty and light
So many glorious things are here
Noble and right

I thank Thee too that Thou hast made
Joy to abound
So many gentle thoughts and deeds
Circling us round
That in the darkest spot of earth
Some love is found.

I thank Thee more that all our joy
Is touched with pain
That shadows fall on brightest hours
That thorns remain
So that earth's bliss may be our guide,
And not our chain

For Thou who knowest Lord how soon
Our weak heart clings
Hast given us joys tender and true,
Yet all with wings
So that we see gleaming on high
Diviner things

I thank Thee, Lord, that Thou has kept
The best in store
We have enough yet not too much
To long for
A yearning for a deeper peace
Not known before

I thank Thee Lord that here our souls
Though amply blessed,
Can never find although they seek
A [illegible]
Nor ever shall, until they lean
On Jesus' breast

The Man in the Reservoir.

BY CHAS FENNO HOFFMAN

You may see some of the best society in New York on the top of the distributing reservoir, any of these fine October mornings. There were two or three carriages in waiting and half a dozen senatorial looking mothers with young children, pacing the parapet, as we basked there the other day in the sunshine—now watching the pickerel that glide along the lucid edges of the black pool within, and now looking off upon the scene of rich and [illegible] variety that spreads along the two rivers on either side

"They may talk of Alpheus and Arethusa," murmured an idling sophomore, who had found his way thither during recitation hours, "but the Croton in passing over an arm of the sea at Spuyten Duyvel and bursting to sight again in this truncated pyramid, beats it all hollow. By G—, too, the bay yonder looks as blue as ever the Ægean sea to Byron's eyes, gazing from the Acropolis! But the painted foliage on these crags!—the Greeks must have dreamed of such a vegetable phenomenon in the midst of their greyish olive groves, or they never would have supplied the want of it in this landscape by embroidering their marble temples with gay colors."

"Did you see that pike break, sir?"

"I did not"

"Zounds! his silver fin flashed upon the black Acheron, like a restless soul that hoped to mount from the pool!"

"The place seems suggestive of fancies to you," we observed in reply to the rattlepate.

"It is, in fact, for I have done up a good deal of anxious thinking within a circle of a few yards from where that fish broke just now."

A singular place for meditation—the [illegible] of the reservoir!"

"You look incredulous, sir, but it's a fact. A fellow can never tell, until he is 'A 1,' what situation his most earnest meditations may be concentrated. I am boring you, though?"

"Not at all. But you seem to be so familiar with the spot, I wish you could tell me why that ladder leading down to the water is lashed against the stone-work in yonder corner?"

"That ladder, sir," said the young man, [illegible] at the question, "why, the position, perhaps the very existence, of that ladder [illegible] from my meditations in the reservoir, at which you smiled just now. Shall I tell you all about them?"

"Pray do."

"[illegible] the notice forbidding any one to fish in the reservoir. Now, when I read that warning, the spirit of the thing struck me at once as inferring nothing more than that one should not sully the temperance potations of our citizens by steeping bait in it of any kind, but you probably know the common way of taking pike with the snip noose of delicate wire. I was determined to have a touch at the fellows with this kind of tackle.

'I chose a moonlight night, and an hour before the edifice was closed to visitors I secreted myself within the walls, determined to pass the night on the top. All went as I could wish it. The night proved cloudy, but it was only a variable drift of broken clouds which obscured the moon. I had a walking cane-rod with me which would reach to the margin of the water and several feet beyond it if necessary. To this was attached the wire about fifteen inches in length.

'I prowled along the parapet for a considerable time, but not a single fish could I see. The clouds made a flickering light and shade, that wholly foiled my steadfast gaze. I was convinced that should the [illegible], my whole night's adventure would be thrown away. 'Why should I not descend the sloping wall and get nearer or a level with the fish, for thus alone can I hope to see any one?' The question had hardly shaped itself in my mind before I had one leg over the iron rail.

'If you look around you will see now that there are some half dozen weeds growing here and there, amid the fissures of solid masonry. In one of the fissures from whence these spring I planted a foot and began my descent. The reservoir was fuller than it is now, and a few strides would have carried me to the margin of the water. Holding on to the cliff above I felt round with the one foot for a place to plant it below me.

'At that moment the flap of a round pike made me look round, and the roots of the [illegible], on which I partially depended, gave way as I was in the act of turning. Sir, one's senses are sharpened in deadly peril; as I live now, I distinctly heard the bells of Trinity chiming midnight as I rose to the surface the next instant, immersed in the stone caldron where I must swim for my life, Heaven only could tell how long!

'I [illegible], and this naturally gave me a [illegible] of self possession. Falling as I had, I of course had pitched out some distance from its sloping parapet. A few strokes brought me to the edge. I really was not yet certain but that I could clamber up the face of the wall anywhere. I hoped that I could. I felt certain at least there was some spot where I might get hold with my hands, even if I did not ultimately ascend it.

'I tried the nearest spot. The inclination of the wall was so vertical that it did not even rest me to lean against it. I felt with my hands and with my feet. Surely I thought there must be some fissure like that in which that ill omened weed had found a place for its root!

'There was none. My fingers became sore in busying themselves with the harsh and inhospitable stone. My feet slipped from the smooth and slimy masonry beneath the water, and several times my face came in rude contact with the wall when my foothold gave way on the instant that I seemed to have found some diminutive rocky cleft upon which I could stay myself.

'Sir, did you ever see a rat drowned in a half filled hogshead—how he swims round and round, and round, and after vainly trying the sides again and again with his paws fixes his eyes upon the upper rim as if he would look himself out of his watery prison.

'I thought of the miserable vermin, thought of him as I had often watched thus his dying agonies when a cruel urchin of eight or ten. Boys are horribly cruel, sir, boys, women and savages. All childlike things are cruel, cruel from a want of thought and from perverse ingenuity, although by instinct each of these is so tender. You may not have observed it, but a savage is as tender to its young as a boy is to a favorite puppy; the same boy that will torture a kitten out of existence. I thought then I say of the rat drowning in a half filled cask of water, and lifting his gaze out of the vessel as he grew more and more desperate, and I flung myself on my back and floating thus fixed my eyes upon the face of the moon.

'The moon is well enough in her way however you may look at her, but her appearance is, to say the least of it, peculiar to a man floating on his back in the centre of a stone tank, with a dead wall of some fifteen or twenty feet rising squarely on every side of him.' (The young man smiled bitterly as he said this, and shuddered once or twice, then went on musingly.) 'The last time I had noted the planet with any emotion she was on the wane. Mary was with me. I had brought her out here one morning to look at the view from the top of the cistern. She said little of the scene, but as we talked of our old childish love, I saw that its fresh features were incorporating themselves with tender memories of the past and I was content.

'There was a rich golden haze upon the landscape, and as my own spirits rose amid the voluptuous atmosphere she pointed to the waning planet, discernible like a faint gash in the welkin, and wondered how long it would be before the leaves would fall. Strange girl, did she mean to rebuke my joyous mood as if we had no right to be happy while nature, withering in her pomp, and the sickly moon wasting in the blaze of noontide were there to remind us of 'the gone forever?' 'They will all renew themselves, dear Mary,' said I encouragingly, 'and there is one that will ever keep trust alike with thee and nature through all seasons, if thou wilt but be true to one of us and remain as now a child of nature.'

A tear sprang to her eye, and then searching her pocket for her card-case she remembered an engagement to be present at Miss Lawson's opening of fall bonnets at two o'clock!

And yet dear wild, wayward Mary, I thought of her now. You have probably outlived this sort of thing, sir, but looking at the moon as I floated there upturned to her yellow light, thought of the loved being whose tears I knew would flow when she heard of my singular fate, at once so grotesque, yet melancholy to awfulness.

And how often we have talked too of that Carian shepherd who spent his damp nights upon the hills, gazing as I do upon the lustrous planet! Who will revel with her amid those old superstitions? Who from our own unlegended woods, will evoke their yet undetected haunting spirits? Who peer with her in prying scrutiny into nature's laws, and challenge the whispers of poetry from the voiceless throat of matter? Who laugh merrily over the stupid guess work of pedants that never mingled with the infinitude of nature, through love exhaustless and all embracing, as we have? Poor girl! she will be companionless.

'Alas! companionless forever—save in the existing stages of some brisk flirtation. She will live hereafter by feeding other hearts with love's lore she has learned from me, and, Pygmalion-like grow fond of the images she has herself crowned with semblance of divinity until they seem to breathe back the mystery the soul can truly catch from only one.

"How anxious she will be lest the Coroner shall have discovered any of her notes in my pocket!

"I felt chilly as this last reflection crossed my mind partly at thought of the Coroner partly at the idea of Mary being unwillingly compelled to wear mourning for me in case of such a disclosure of our engagement. It is a provoking thing for a girl of nineteen to have to go into mourning for a deceased lover, at the beginning of her second winter in the metropolis.

'The water, though with my motionless position, must have had something to do with my chilliness. I see, sir, you think that I tell my story with great levity, but indeed, indeed I should grow delirious did I venture to hold steadily to the awfulness of my feeling the greater part of that night.

'I think, indeed, I must have been most of the time hysterical with horror for the vibrating emotions I have recapitulated did pass through my brain even as I have detailed them.

'But as I now became calm in thought I summoned up again some resolution of action.

"'I will begin at the corner' said I, 'and swim around the whole inclosure.'

"I will swim slowly and again feel the edges of the tank with my feet. If die I must, let me perish at least from well directed though exhausting effort, not sink from mere bootless weariness in sustaining myself till the morning shall bring relief.'

"The sides of the place seemed to grow higher as I now kept my watery course beneath them. It was not altogether a dead-pull. I had some variety of emotion in making my circuit. When I swam in the shadow, it looked to me more cheerful beyond in the moonlight, and when I swam in the moonlight, I had the hope of making some discovery when I should again reach the shadow. I turned several times on my back to rest just where those wavy lines would meet. The stars looked victoriously bright to me from the bottom of that well; there was such a company of them; they were so glad in their lustrous revelry, and they had such a space to move in! I was alone, sad to despair in a strange element, prisoned and a solitary gazer upon their mocking chorus. And yet there was nothing else with which I could hold communion!

'I turned upon my breast and struck out almost frantically once more. The stars were forgotten, the moon, the very world for which I as yet formed a part, my poor Mary herself was forgotten. I thought only of the strong man there perishing, of me in my lusty manhood, in the sharp vigor of my dawning prime, with faculties alive with sense, alert, battling there with physical obstacles which men like myself had brought together for my undoing. The Eternal could never have willed this thing! I could not and I would not perish thus. And I grew strong in insolence of self trust, and I laughed aloud as I dashed the sluggish water from side to side.

Then came an emotion of pity for myself—of wild wild regret, of sorrow O infinite for a fate so desolate, a doom so dreary, so heart sickening! You may laugh at the contradiction if you will, sir, but I felt that I could sacrifice my own life on the instant, to redeem another fellow creature from such a place of horror, from an end so piteous. My soul and my vital spirit seemed in that desperate moment to be separating, while one in parting grieved over the deplorable fate of the other.

And then I prayed! I prayed why or wherefore I know not. It was not from fear. It could not have been in hope. The days of miracles are passed, and there was no natural law by which providential interposition could be evoked. I did not pray; it prayed of itself, my soul within me.

Was the calmness that I now felt culpability, the torpidity that precedes dissolution, to the strong swimmer who, sinking from exhaustion, must at last add a bubble to the wave as he suffocates beneath the element which now denied his mystery? If it were so, how fortunate was it that my floating rod at that moment attracted my attention as it dashed through the water by me. I saw on the instant that a fish had entangled himself in the wire noose. The rod quivered, plunged, came again to the surface and rippled the water as it shot in arrowy flight from side to side of the tank. At last, driven towards the southeast corner of the reservoir, the small end seemed to have got stuck somewhere. The brazen butt which every time the fish sounded was thrown up to the moon, now sunk by its own weight showing that the other end must be fast. [illegible] violently anchored somewhere by that brazen butt, floundered several times to the rod before I thought of striking out to the spot.

The water is low now and tolerably clear. You may see the very ledge there, sir, in yonder corner on which the small end of my rod rested when I seized that pike with my hands. I did not take him from the slip noose, however, but standing upon the edge handled the rod in a workmanlike manner as I flung that pound pickerel over the iron railing up in the top of the parapet. The rod, as I have told you, barely reached from the railing to the water. It was a heavy, strong, bass rod which I had borrowed in the Spirit of the Times office; and when I discovered that the fish at the end made it strong enough not to prevent me from throwing my tackle away from the railing around which it twined itself as I threw, why as you can at once see I had but little difficulty in making my way up the face of the wall with such assistance. The ladder which attracted your notice is as you see lashed to the iron railing in the identical spot where I thus made my escape, and for fear of similar accidents they have placed another one in the corresponding corner of the compartment of the tank ever since my remarkable night's adventure in the reservoir.—From the "Little Classic" Series.

Late Liverpool telegrams quote average California wheat ex warehouse 9s 6d per cental. Oregon 9s 8d. Oregon cargoes for prompt shipment to Liverpool are 9s to Cork 8s 3d. The same advices declare there is no demand and sales are difficult to make at the decline.

According to the New York papers a better business has seldom been done in that city at the time of year than that which was being carried on about the close of 1874. From nearly all the trade centers there come reports of a better feeling and some improvement, the chief drawback and disturbing element which has since been removed being the existing doubt with reference to the currency question and the changeable price of gold. Shipments to the interior are increasing and surplus stocks of goods are being rapidly worked off at moderate prices. Taking a broad survey of the commercial situation the papers predict a fair business for the coming season.

It is a noteworthy fact that last fall and this winter [illegible] of the banks west of Ohio have asked for accommodations of their New York correspondents. This unusual experience is probably to be accounted for mainly by the fact that the West has grown rich and therefore has more capital of her own but partly also by the fact that one effect of the panic was to change a great many country bank accounts from New York banks to Western ones.

In local trade circles there is still an entire absence of animation and reviews of the market are useless, the whole situation being described in the words blocked by cold weather. The present prospects are not any more favorable than those of yesterday and from the accounts received last night from Eastern Oregon and Washington Territory the cold has been even more intense and of longer duration than in this valley and the probable loss of stock in those sections will be a severe blow to their prosperity. Feed is quite abundant in the Wallamet valley and the injury to the wheat fields by the hard freeze will fall as heavily on the people here as any other result of this weather.

In our home markets there is no business going on beyond the supplying of the local trade. Butter, eggs, fruits and vegetables have all advanced and as there are but few or no receipts a still great advance is certain to take place should the thaw not come very soon.

Insurance.

A San Francisco paper publishes a list of the insurance companies of California and the dividends paid by them on the business of 1874. These companies appear to have done well judging from the dividends paid as follows:

	Per cent	Amount
California	1	$64 000
Commercial	18	36 000
Fireman's Fund	21	63 000
State Investment	18	[illegible]
Union	24	180 000
Total		$[illegible] 500

The capital of the Union is $[illegible] 000 while the combined capital of the other three is only $1 000 000.

Immigration.

The following table shows the passenger movement to and from this coast via San Francisco by sea and land since 186[illegible]:

	Arrival.	Departed.	Gain.
1870	52,400	37,300	15,100
1871	[illegible] 000	31 [illegible]	10,700
1872	51 [illegible]	33,[illegible]	18,700
1873	70 300	35 400	34 900
1874	83 400	38 100	4[illegible]

The gain in arrivals over departures for 1870 and 1871 was from 30 to 40 per cent. In 1872 it rose to 55 per cent. In 1873 to [illegible] per cent, while during the past year the arrivals have exceeded the departures by nearly 120 per cent. Several months ago the San Francisco Bulletin estimated the net gain for the year at 50 000. The result shows within [illegible] 000 of that number. All things continuing favorable, the net gain for the current year will exceed 60 000. The number represents the equivalent of 12 000 families. The overland travel last month consisted of 1 [illegible]66 arrivals and 1 [illegible]30 departures, against 3 [illegible]28 arrivals and 1 [illegible] departures for the same month in 1873, and [illegible] arrivals and 1,[illegible] departures for the same month in 1872. The movement toward California last month was unusually large for the mid winter season and the net gain by both routes shows an addition of over 4 000 to our population. Population is everywhere recognized as an important element of progress, and in no section of the world is this fact so noticeable as in new countries.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,
For all the purposes of a Family Physic,
CURING
Costiveness, Jaundice Dyspepsia Indigestion Dysentery Gout Stomach and Breath Erysipelas Headache Piles Rheumatism Eruptions and Skin Diseases Biliousness Liver Complaint Dropsy Tetter Tumors and Salt Rheum Worms Gout Neuralgia as a Dinner Pill and Purifying the Blood are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much they excel all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood, they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action and they impart health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most skillful physicians, most eminent clergymen and our best citizens send certificates of cures performed and of great benefit they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated they are easy to take, and being purely vegetable they are entirely harmless.

Ayer's Ague Cure,
FOR THE SPEEDY RELIEF OF
Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.
R Has been widely used during the last twenty five years in the treatment of these distressing diseases, and with such unvarying success that it has gained the reputation of being infallible. The shakes or chills once broken by it, do not return until the disease is contracted again. This has made it an accepted remedy and trusted specific for the Fever and Ague of the West, and the Chills and Fever of the South.
Ayer's Ague Cure eradicates the noxious poison from the system and leaves the patient as well as before the attack. It thoroughly expels the disease so that no Liver Complaint, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dysentery or Debility follow the cure. Indeed where Disorders of the Liver and Bowels have occurred from Miasmatic Poison it removes the cause of them and they disappear. Not only is it an effectual cure but if taken occasionally by patients exposed to malaria it will expel the poison and protect them from attack. Travellers and temporary residents in Fever and Ague localities are thus enabled to defy the disease. The General Debility which is so apt to ensue from continued exposure to Malaria and Miasm has no speedier remedy.
For Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy.
